St. Patrick's Catholic Parish

Scottsdale, Arizona

The tabernacle at St. Patrick's was designed to convey the sense of the Tree of Life, with it's outer mahogany trunk housing an inner copper tabernacle. The maple arms reach toward the skylight above, symbolic of Christ risen, embracing the etched glass leaves, a symbol of the healing of nations. The skylight above uses crystal bevels to reflect a refracted light crown of thorns on the shaft walls. The crystal bevels, designed in the shape of crosses, describe our lives reconciled. The greens of the skylight, the color of regular time in the church calendar, reflect on the etched leaves; the life of the church. The round altar is made of solid Honduras mahogany, supported by three angels suggest the Trinity. The stained glass window includes a copper clad tree form inlaid into the window.

St. Joseph's Catholic Church Crescent City, California

Symbolism and unity play a key role in the design of liturgical furnishings. The two pieces are made from solid Honduras mahogany and maple with a slender vein of purple heart wood, often called 'the blood of Christ', running down the center beneath the tabernacle and bisecting the altar joining the color. The altar also includes solid maple symbolizing light/spirit.

Divine Savior Catholic Church Sacramento, California

St. Mary's Catholic Church San Demas, California

Symbolism and unity play a key role in the design of liturgical furnishings. The two pieces are made from solid Honduras mahogany and the ambo is shaped with arms raised in celebration of the Gospel which is placed on the shelf.

Ark Afire

Adot Shalom Westwood, California

The beveled jewels in the skylight (the skylight representing Heaven) transmit reflections onto the carpet, symbolic of Abraham in the multiplication of seed for as many stars as are in the Heavens. The Ark itself is set afire by the Burning Bush (stained glass window behind the Ark) representing the Power and Glory of God's presence in His Word The Torah. The Ark is in crystals symbolizing the light of His Word. The beveled star jewels in the Heavens break the spectrum of light, a subtle show of God's fruit in our lives; Yellow-JOY, pink-LOVE, blue-PEACE. The Shophar mounted center and above, the Torah formed in clear polyurethane, a picture of God's perfect forgiveness.
